

LONDON DSA WORKSHOP 2013

AUDIONOTETAKER VS AUDIONOTEBOOK

Note taking software is proving to be one of the most popular tools among DSA Students. This workshop will see the developers of the two note taking packages present their latest software versions, and take questions and feedback from attendees.

SAMSON GO MICS

More and more students are taking computers into lectures and typing notes directly into note taking software. By using a high quality USB Microphone that plugs into a laptop, they can simultaneously record the audio. This workshop will present the results of the recording quality tests comparing the Go Mics with Dictaphones and Livescribe Pens. It will also outline how the miniature Mics integrate with software, hardware and learning techniques.

ACCESSIBILITY ON OSX AND WINDOWS 8

Windows 8 and the Mac OSX offer extensive accessibility features including magnification tools, speech feedback, screen reading and voice input. A former Apple Workshop presenter will go head to head with a proponent for Windows. Which operating system will come out on top?

DSA STUDENT FEEDBACK

A look at data from DSA students, followed by a personal account of the DSA by a former student and an excerpt from his film. A short presentation about potential evolutions of the DSA quote system, which will feed into an open discussion, and Q&A with Graham Tranter.
